

What the men said about Washington's milk scandal will be charitable in comparison with the ladies' outcry when they discovered that the Federal Trade Commission has declassified the less-than-fair which common mortals can afford.

On Thursday the FTC published a guide list and ordered the furriers to label their garments accordingly — in the crucifix of Anglo-Saxon words.

Yesterday's Baltic Lion becomes — plain Rabbit.

Hudson Seal is — Muskrat, dyed.

Manchurian Wolf — it's U. S. Dog.

Rock Sable — just U. S. or Mexican Cat.

I suppose what the FTC is trying to do is all very moral and legal, but if the American people still have any humor left after all the morality and lawmaking that's being thrown at us nowadays I suspect they'll put it down as just plain silliness.

Don't forget that our Puritan ancestors used to throw novelists into jail on the grounds that they were immoral fellows because the stories they wrote weren't true.

And now that the cycle of public faces is swinging back to the stern and forbidding visage of the Man Who Tends to Other People's Business maybe we'll walk up to the movie box-office one of these nights and see a sign saying: "Closed—O Teller of Lies!"

What harm is there in letting folks dream . . . at least a little . . . and for a while?

The mamma wrapped in the cut-rate fur that was the best her man could afford . . . how cruel to remind her it isn't the real McCoy! Besides her friends all know what it is. I laugh at the grave governmental gentlemen of the FTC for thinking they are telling women something about clothes.

Government is dull because it has no imagination — but if it weren't for men of imagination in private business there would be fewer tax dollars and a leaner living for the tax-payers.

Now the man I admire — and the one those FTC savants should be grateful to (he's gotten them plenty of tax dollars) — is the man who thought up the name: Baltic Lion.

Name of a dog! The man was a genius!

While he leaves my dog alone.

County Men Attend Meet at Lewisville

A chemical weed control meeting at Lewisville Monday was attended by nine Hempstead County farm leaders. The meeting was sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service with Agricultural Engineer, Robert Howell and Cotton Specialist, Robert H. Sloan presenting the information as discussion and colored slides.

Chemical weed control is a relative new practice which is creating much interest among short cotton farmers. The information presented was secured during the last four years primarily through research at the University of Arkansas Experiment Station at Marianna.

Chemical weed control is a highly specialized operation and farmers must prepare themselves in advance with full information on materials, equipment, and "Know-How." When the chemical weed control method is going to be used it is necessary to plan for it from the beginning—before the land is even prepared.

A new publication of the University of Arkansas Extension Service "Chemical Weed Control in Cotton Production" is now available at the County Agent, Oliver L. Adams, office in the courthouse. The publication deals with seedbed preparation, fertilization, planting, equipment and materials. There are two types of materials, pre-emergence, as the name implies, is applied before cotton comes up while the post-emergence is applied after the cotton has come up.

Those attending the Lewisville meeting Monday from Hempstead County in addition to County Agent Adams were: W. E. Thompson, Warren Nesbitt, J. Brooks Shultz, Jesse Burke, Johnny Ferguson, Cecil Bittles of the Experiment Station, and machinery representative Bill Tolson and Otis Landers. Tom Garland and Raymond Garland of Emmett, who operate a farm in Hempstead, also attended.

Trial of Reds to Last Long Time

Los Angeles Feb. 9 (AP)—The federal conspiracy trial of California's 15 top Communists is apparently going to run a long time. At the end of the first full week, the first prosecution witness is still on the stand and only 10 of 604 exhibits are in evidence.

A further delay cropped up yesterday when one of the five defense attorneys, Alexander H. Chulman, was stricken with flu. The trial was expected to run Monday.

Capehart Wants Senate Bill to Abolish RFC

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) said today he will ask the Senate to set aside other business and immediately take up a bill to abolish the much investigated Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC).

The Senate Banking Committee already has agreed to seek an early showdown on this measure and a second by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) to make certain reforms in the agency.

Capehart told a reporter he believes President Truman's new feud with the Senate over the RFC is boomeranging.

He said Mr. Truman's actions are "making many votes for the proposition of putting this unnecessary and costly lending agency out of business."

Truman and the Senate Banking Committee are at loggerheads over the President's attempt to install Harry A. McDonald as the RFC's chief without waiting for a House Commerce subcommittee to wind up an investigation of the Security and Exchange Commission (SEC) which McDonald now heads.

The SEC is under scrutiny of the House subcommittee following charges of fraud in its operations. None of the accusations was aimed specifically at McDonald, the SEC's chairman, who says he has done nothing wrong.

The banking committee has refused to approve McDonald for the post before the House has finished its investigation.

One basis for the demand to abolish the RFC was a banking subcommittee accusation last spring that the agency yielded to improper pressures of an influence ring, which, it said, had contacts in the White House itself.

Germans Have Stiff Price to Join West

Bonn, Germany, Feb. 9 (AP)—Allied officials said today West Germany's high-priced demands for joining Western defense will set back a peace settlement with the ex-enemy and stall plans for welding German troops into a six-nation European army.

The price includes an end to Allied occupation, full sovereignty for Germany, an equal voice in Western strategic councils and freedom for many German war criminals.

The restive parties in Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government hung these conditions on their approval last night of Adenauer's proposal to recruit 300,000 to 400,000 troops for Western defense.

The Bundestag (Lower House) agreed to it by the slim margin of 204 to 158.

The vote was taken only on the principle of the proposal and does not mean immediate conscription of soldiers. That can come only after Germany agrees to a peace settlement, joins the European army it has been negotiating over, and votes formal ratification of a defense bill ordering formation of troops and raising the money for defense.

The powerful Socialists fought the army plan tooth and nail. The conditions themselves were sponsored by the parties in Adenauer's coalition, not by the opposition.

Allied officials agreed the demands called for the Big Three to reassess their policy toward Western Germany. Already they were debating what concessions they might make to help Adenauer win final ratification of his rearmament plans.

U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy called in German Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer today for a conference, an indication the United States may be taking the meaning of the new conditions at once. Schaeffer is Germany's chief negotiator on the disputed question of how much money West Germany should chip in to pay for defenses.

Phone Co-op Loan Expected Soon

Little Rock, Feb. 9 (AP)—Public service Commissioner John R. Thompson says that the first government loans for Arkansas telephone co-ops are expected within the next two weeks.

Southwest Arkansas Telephone Co-Operative and Central Telephone Co-Op have filed applications for loans through the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington.

Southwest would provide service to about 800 rural customers around the Garland City-Fouke-Doddridge area in Miller County. Central would serve some 450 rural customers near Donaldson, Bismarck and Friendship in Hot Spring County.

Thompson said yesterday that REA officials told him the loans probably would be approved within the next two weeks.

Spring Hill PTA to Hear Rev. Galloway

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Galloway will be guest speakers at the Spring Hill PTA which will meet at 7:30 p. m., Monday, February 11.

Mr. Galloway is the district superintendent of the Hope District, Arkansas Methodist Church and Mrs. Galloway is the past president of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Little Rock Conference. The subject of their talks will be their travels throughout Europe.

Observers See Eisenhower, Taft Campaign

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—What is Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, up to in a race that now looks like a Taft-Eisenhower contest for the Republican presidential nomination?

That's a question puzzling some Washington political observers as well as many supporters of Sen. Taft of Ohio and Gen. Eisenhower. The Taft camp thinks Stassen is off the political beam in challenging the senator on his home grounds in Ohio and forcing him to run in such states as Illinois and West Virginia, where he had not planned to enter.

The Ohioans' supporters accuse Stassen of being an Eisenhower stalking horse and heading a stop-Taft drive — both of which he denies.

Eisenhower backers are sore at Stassen for leaving his name in the March 11 New Hampshire primary, where they figure he is likely to cut into the vote for the general and thus help Taft.

But Stassen, a young man who feels he has a mission to rebuild the Republican party along what he calls more progressive lines, goes determinedly on his way as though he expected to have the presidential nomination within his grasp at the Chicago convention.

From what he says himself, Stassen's whole campaign is based primarily on (1) the assumption Eisenhower won't return from Europe and thus won't get the nomination, (2) the possibility he can demonstrate popularity in primary contests and (3) the evident hope he can emerge as a compromise candidate.

The former Minnesota governor's strength does not now appear widespread. He contends he will win the Wisconsin primary, where he is entered against Taft. If he does that, of course, he will become a major factor to be reckoned with.

Outside of that possibility, however, he seems to have only Minnesota and a scattered few delegates from New Jersey, Missouri, Colorado and some other states upon which to count.

His national headquarters in Washington said it mailed necessary filing papers and the $1,000 fee to West Virginia yesterday.

Unless he wins a major primary, he now seems unlikely to be able to match the 70 California votes Gov. Earl Warren of California is almost certain to carry into the convention. Warren also is an announced candidate, but hasn't yet moved outside California.

University Paper Reports Cribbing

Fayetteville, Feb. 9 (AP)—The University of Arkansas student newspaper, the Arkansas Traveler, says that 21 of 58 students interviewed admitted cheating on recent final examinations.

One student, the newspaper reported, said he stole between 10 and 15 tests from instructors' desks in nighttime burglaries. He said he turned the questions over to friends without charge.

This student-he wasn't identified related that to enter "Old Main" he lowered himself by a rope from the top floor to the window desired the newspaper said.

Most students said they did their cribbing in a less hazardous manner. They took notes to examinations or peered at papers of near by students.

The article, signed by Bob Robertson of the Traveler Staff, said most of the students who admitted cheating said they felt no guilt.

"The general opinion was that everybody does it," Robertson wrote.

Professor Plunges to His Death

New York Feb. 9 (AP)—A New York University law professor plunged four floors to his death yesterday during a conference on funeral arrangements for his young daughter.

The professor, Paul D. Kaufman, 53, left the conference and entered the bathroom of his Brooklyn apartment. Shortly afterward, his body was found in a concrete courtyard. Police said he fell or jumped.

SOUP KITCHEN RETURNS—Polish emigrants, hard hit by defense-conversion unemployment in Detroit motor factories, line up at a privately-operated soup kitchen in Hamtramck, Mich., industrial suburb of Detroit. The kitchen—dishing out substantial meals of soup, meat, vegetables, bread and coffee—is the first to be set up in Hamtramck since the depression days of the Thirties. A suburban councilman has proposed publicly-operated kitchens to help feed some of the area's 200,000 jobless.

Oilmen Lease Arkansas Valley Land

Little Rock, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Arkansas Gazette said today that several major oil companies are making a major effort to lease properly in the Arkansas River Valley from the Oklahoma border to the Pulaski County line.

The newspaper said the leasing activity was started last spring by the Carter Oil Co., which has offices at Fort Smith.

It reported that millions of acres already have been leased on both sides of the river and tests are being made. Carter was followed by Murphy Oil Co., Texas Co., Continental Oil Co., Magnolia Oil Co., the Gazette said.

The newspaper added that an estimated 50 per cent of the acreage between the Faulkner-Pulaski County line and the Oklahoma border is under lease many leases are close to proven gas fields in Johnson, Crawford, Pope and Franklin counties; and companies are offering from 50 cents to one dollar per acre for leases.

NOVELIST DIES

Isle of Capri Feb. 9 (AP)—Norman Douglas, 33-year-old British novelist and essayist, died here today on the island he loved and helped make famous.

One of his most noted books was the novel "South Wind," published in 1917.

Wilbur Finds Out You Have to Be a Paper Clip to Really Get the Feel of Washington

By HAL BOYLE
Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Wilbur Peabody, America's most average citizen, today suddenly called off his one man investigation of the federal government.

He tells you in this final letter to his wife, Trellis Mae:

Dearest Honey, Well, I give up:

I came here as a patriotic duty, trying to find out what really is going on in the national capital. But it is simply too much for one mind, no matter how gifted. You have to be a paper clip to really get the feel of Washington.

And I'm worn out from head to foot. My arches are flat from walking on marble floors all day and I'm suffering from marfanitis, a common disease among the cocktail circuit riders here.

Also, I'm broke. I told the hotel clerk I would probably have to go out on the highway and hitch a ride home.

"A lot of our visitors leave that way," he said, cheerfully. "Come back after the November election. They always button up here a little before election."

Now, that was a typical remark. They figure nobody comes to Washington except to look for a job and nobody leaves unless he is disappointed. They just don't believe anybody works outside the government by choice.

You almost become a widow yesterday. I was passing a government office building just before dusk. The doors opened and a mob of people rushed out and ran over me. I jumped up and yelled to a fellow:

There must've been an explosion in there. Come on. Let's go in and help bring out the wounded."

"There's nothing wrong," he said. "It's just quitting time."

I fell in step with him, and he said:

Dillard Quits Post as Legion Commander

At a special called meeting of Leslie Huddleston Post, The American Legion, Friday afternoon, Milton I. Dillard asked that he be relieved as the 1951-52 commander. Mr. Dillard gave as the reason the fact that his new duties with Scott Stores will necessitate his being out of the city a great deal of the time.

Fred Robertson, one of the vice commanders for the 1951-52 period was promoted to the top job in the post. Earlier this year the other vice-commander, E. P. Young, Jr., was recalled to active duty with the U. S. Navy.

To fill the two vacated vice-commander positions Dillard appointed a nominating committee that has presented the following names: for first vice-commander, Harry Hawthorne and for second, Vice-commander Mike Schneller.

The election will be held at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the post which will be on Thursday night, February 28. At that time other nominations can be made from the floor.

First action of new Commander Robertson was to appoint J. V. Moore, Jr., as chairman of the concessions for the Legion Base.

He said that other plans for the coming season will be announced soon.

Chicago Civic Leaders Battle Hoodlums

Chicago, Feb. 9 (AP)—Civic and political leaders, aroused by city-wide public indignation over the cold blooded killing of a ward leader, plan an all-out war aimed to destroy hoodlum political power.

The shotgun staving Wednesday night of Charles Gross apparently was politically motivated. Since his murder there has been an ever swelling stream of civic outrage.

Gross, 56, acting Republican committeeman of the West Side 31st Ward, was a candidate for the post in the April 8 primary. He was not one of the city's top GOP leaders. But his brutal slaying in gangland style has stirred front Republican and Democratic parties.

Chicago's four major daily newspapers in editorial demands both parties purge gangster elements from their ranks. The Sun-Times offered $15,000 reward for arrest and conviction of Gross' slayers under its "secret witness" plan. The Tribune offered a reward of $10,000.

Gross' murder was the ninth political assassination in Chicago in the last 25 years. Seven of the eight previous slayings still are unsolved.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson yesterday proposed meeting of both political parties "to consider ways and means of destroying hoodlum political power."

"I am glad Chicago has awakened to this menace," said Stevenson, a Democrat. "I hope it stays awake until we are rid of this creeping menace. I have never bowed to these people and never will."

Cook County Chicago Republican leaders said committeemen in eight wards of the so-called "West Side" will be stripped of their party patronage, including an estimated 300 jobs.

A meeting of 116 civic organizations to unite in an all-out campaign against gangland's invasion of ward politics was called for next Tuesday by the Association of Commerce and the Chicago Crime Commission.

City and state's attorney's police were ordered to "grab every known hoodlum on sight."

NLR Mayor Wants Investigation

North Little Rock, Feb. 9 (AP)—Mayor Ross Lawhon wants to make a "sweeping investigation" of the North Little Rock Civil Service Commission and the police department.

He asked the city council yesterday to appropriate $2,500 to hire investigators and said "confusion and unrest because of charges and counter charges between employees are creating an intolerable condition x x x."

Five city policemen recently petitioned for removal of Civil Service Commission Chairman O. V. Mason.

Arkansan Held in Shooting

Chicago, Feb. 9 (AP)—A Newark, Ark., man has been held to the grand jury in connection with a robbery which was followed by a fatal shooting.

Dugger was arrested Jan. 10 after a chase during which a woman shopper was accidentally shot and killed by a policeman.

The policeman, Mark Mayring, said he was pursuing Dugger whom he accused of taking $125 in a hosiery store robbery. He said his pistol discharged accidentally.

P. S. Tell the boss I have recovered from my injury and intend to go back to work.

Truck Drivers on Highway Job Quit a Half Day

A group of independent gravel haulers, some 25, quit hauling a half day yesterday on the Highway 67 paving job between Hope and Fulton.

Tecon Construction Co. contractors, indicated today it was a dispute among the drivers and not with the contractor. However, one source said the walkout was over money.

The non-union group was back hauling today and the walkout didn't delay construction.

Something New in Animal Kingdom

Washington Feb. 9 (AP)—Something new in the animal kingdom: mice with question mark tails and a cow that had delayed-action twins.

They were reported today by the American Genetic Association in its Journal of Heredity.

The bossy having the delayed-action twins hails from Laurel, Mo. She gave birth to one calf on a fine day in May, 1948, and then 23 days later bore a second one.

"Twins," ruled husbandrymen of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, though they said they were not identical.

The researchers combed husbandry records, found it is "rather unusual for normal calf twins to be born more than a few days apart," and concluded it was a fancy case of "delayed twinning."

The saga of the house mice sporting the "hooked tails" was ported by a Sarasota, Fla., geneticist.

They are laboratory characters whose whacky tails are due to a genetic "mutation"—that is, an alteration in a cellular gene passed on to the first hooker from one of his parents.

The forebears of the new race were a couple of plaid mice having normal straight tails.

Since their mice having tails in many variations of a fishhook shape have popped up all around the Elba.

And, geneticists here say, here's every reason to conclude that such hookers exist among mice who are footloose and fancy free in the world at large.

University Dean Defends Ford Plan

Fayetteville, Feb. 9 (AP)—The man who's heading the study of a proposal for revision of the teacher training system in Arkansas has defended the plan against an attack by a fellow educator.

Dean Henry Kronberg of the University of Arkansas College of Education said yesterday that any belief that the state would lose control over its teacher training by participation in the Ford Foundation's suggested plan "has no justification whatever."

Earlier, Dr. Claude A. Yoeman, chairman of the Division of Education at Southern State College Magnolia, had criticized the plan on several counts. For one thing, he said it would "surrender the direction of the Arkansas education program into the hands of the Ford Foundation."

Dean Kronberg is chairman of a committee which has been studying the foundation proposal. Dr. Yoeman is a committee member.

The Ford Foundation has proposed that Arkansas set up a system for giving prospective teachers four years of general college work to be followed by a fifth year of teaching "internship." It has granted $85,000 to aid in forming a definite program which the foundation must approve if additional grants are made.

Dean Kronberg said that "whatever plan is developed will be the Arkansas plan."

He said also that "I believe that if we work together in an attempt to devise a constructive solution we can set up a program in Arkansas which will produce superior teachers and be a model that many others will follow."

Nathan Gordon to Address VFW Meet

Lt. Governor Nathan Gordon will be principal speaker here Wednesday night at a regular meeting of the local Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mr. Gordon will be introduced by Donald Dill at the ladies night dinner.

Paper Drive Set for Sunday

The VFW will collect scrap paper here Sunday afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. All scrap paper, except at the Arkansas State Penitentiary, is acceptable.

South Koreans Denounce UN Negotiators

By ARNOLD DISBLE
Panmunjom, Korea, (AP)—The South Korean government denounced United Nations truce negotiators today for yielding to the Communists like a defeated command.

"The Korean government views with great concern the continuing concessions which the U.N. delegates are currently making at the Panmunjom ceasefire talks," the government statement said.

It said the Reds were using 3,000 U.S. war prisoners as "hostages in order to demand" even further concessions.

"Neither the people nor the government of the republic of Korea can tolerate these insulting humiliations," the Korean statement said.

The bitter statement was issued at Pusan, temporary capital of South Korea, as U.N. truce negotiators at Panmunjom accepted with reservations a Communist proposal for a high-level peace conference within 60 days of the conclusion of a Korean armistice.

Under the U.N. counterproposal the conference would be limited to a discussion of the withdrawal of non-Korean forces from Korea, peaceful settlement of the Korean situation and other Korean questions. The Reds had wanted to extend the talks to include a general far eastern settlement.

Vice Admiral C. Turner, head of the U.N. delegation, said he insisted that the South Korean government be represented in the talks. The Communist proposal mentioned only the North Korean and Chinese Communist governments and the U.N. as participants. South Korea is not a member of the U.N.

North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam promised to reply to the U.N. counter-proposal at another meeting of the full truce delegations at 10 p.m. Sunday (8 p.m. today EST). A session lasted only 10 minutes.

Staff officers meeting at the main negotiating session today agreed on portions of a more paragraphs in a plan for changing war prisoners.

These dealt with the designation of Panmunjom as the initial change point, the establishment of joint committees to supervise exchange, and creation of joint Cross visiting teams to assist in the transfer.

Other staff officers reported progress in their efforts to work out an agreement on supervision of the truce.

Army Wants Out of Rail Business

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—Army says it's tired of running nation's railroads and Sen. Warren (D-Ariz.) believes it's time to get out.

Truman might call a war conference aimed at getting them back in private hands. The military is in charge of settlement of a wage dispute that brought on government intervention in August, 1950.

The Army's desire to be the responsibility was voiced yesterday by Assistant Secretary of the Army Karl E. Meyer turning down a request for 15,000 conductors for a war conference.

McFarland told newsmen "encouraged" that Mr. Meyer would do something about the situation for a conference management and the clearing of brotherhoods to a dispute.

McFarland said that "I would do something about the situation for a conference management and the clearing of brotherhoods to a dispute."

State Laws to Rule Sales to UMT Victims

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Controversy over sale of intoxicants to 18-year-olds who may take universal military training indicates final selection of UMT training centers may be influenced by state liquor laws.

The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday received a "tentative list" of 17 Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force installations in 12 states where the six months of basic training for 18-year-olds could begin this year if Congress passes necessary legislation.

Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo.), said he is confident the committee will approve the UMT bill as did the House Armed Services Committee. But there was a lot of talk about sale of beer and liquor to minors. Officials setting up UMT testified the legal minimum age for sale of liquor in 11 of the 12 states is 21 years—well above the 18-year-age of trainees. The 12th state, Oklahoma, is dry.

Ally, a member of the committee, said the tentative list of training centers, selected by Pentagon leaders, follows:

Army: 8, Camp Chaffee, Ark.; Ft. Ord, Calif.; Ft. Riley, Kan.; Ft. Knox, Ky.; Ft. Dix, N. J.; and Ft. Jackson, S. C.

Navy: 3, Camp Elliott, Calif.; U. S. Naval Submarine Station, New London, Conn.; and Norman, Okla.

Marine Corps: 6, Camp Pendleton, El Toro, and San Diego, Calif.; U. S. Marine Corps School, Quantico, Va.; and Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point, N. C.

Air Force: 2, Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Ill.; and Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls, Tex.

The House committee, in approving the UMT bill, banned sale of intoxicants to the trainees, but allowed sale of beer of 1 per cent alcoholic content.

James W. Wadsworth, chairman of the National Security Training Commission, which would supervise UMT operation, called this "complete prohibition" and questioned its necessity.

Wadsworth said present plans are to start with training of 60,000 18-year-olds annually and then gradually expand until the training covers 100,000.

Campton estimated that in from two to four years UMT could replace the present draft act in supplying manpower for the armed services, in addition to volunteers and regulars.

The governor made no reply but indicated he would have an answer after completion of his appointment calendar for next week.

The commission last week invited McMath to appear before it but specified he would be sworn and subject to examination, as are other witnesses.

The crowd didn't quite fill the Garden's 18,500 capacity another three or four thousand could have got in but Eisenhower leaders were overjoyed at the turnout.

"I think it's the most spectacular thing in political history," enthused Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr., national chairman of the new Citizens for Eisenhower organization.

"A turnout of this proportion at this stage of the campaign is unheard of," the son of the late Republican senator from Michigan added.

"Without precedent," was the comment of Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.), manager of the Eisenhower campaign.

"Usually we have to work to fill the Garden at the end of a campaign. Now we're doing it with our man 3,000 miles away."

The midnight "Serenade to Eisenhower" was broadcast locally by radio, went as far as Chicago over television channels and was shortwave to France, where the general heads up the North Atlantic Treaty military forces.

Many stars of television and the movies were of the program.

Avalyn Jacqueline Cochran, co-moderator of the rally with Tex McCrary, is to fly to Paris later today with movies of the affair, the first of a series planned for different parts of the country.

The next will be in Ft. Worth, Texas.

Railway Pays Man After 53 Years

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 8 (AP)—Warren Dowdell, 70, collected $18.20 that Southern Railway owed him for work as a section hand 53 years ago.

The railroad matter of a faculty paid off yesterday when Dowdell submitted a claim and records confirmed he had been owed wages since 1899. He left his repair gang unexpectedly one day when he heard his wife was ill, and never returned.

Defendants Say Proof Is Up to Murry

Little Rock, Feb. 8 (AP)—Arkansas Atty. Gen. Ike Murry should be required to prove that $2,000 involved in the Indian Bay road fund bill belongs to the state, the defendants say.

An assertion that the burden of proof was on Murry was contained in the latest pleading filed in the Circuit Court on behalf of Highway Commissioner Charles Adams of Hughes and Henry Woods, Gov. McMath's executive secretary.

The pleading added that, if the money doesn't belong to the state, it is none of Murry's "concern to whom it may belong."

Murry filed suit last week to require payment of the money to the state treasury.

Testimony was introduced at Highway Audit Commission hearings that the money was raised by Monroe County residents to aid in financing improvement of the Indian Bay road but that it went up in Gov. McMath's 1930 political campaign fund.

Adams said he accepted the money in the belief it was a campaign contribution. Woods was McMath's campaign manager.

Murry said that after the state improved the road, the money should have gone to the state treasury.

Yesterday's pleading was in response to a motion of Murry that Adams and Woods would be required to make their original answer more specific and to strike a part of their answer asking that Mr. and Mrs. P. P. George and W. C. Story be made parties to the litigation. The Georges and Story raised the money for the road improvement.

Lawyers for Adams and Woods said that all persons connected with the road fund transaction should be parties to the suit for a proper determination.

Another development yesterday growing out of the audit hearings was a letter from the commission to McMath asking if he planned to appear before the commission when it resumes its public sessions Monday.

The governor made no reply but indicated he would have an answer after completion of his appointment calendar for next week.

The commission last week invited McMath to appear before it but specified he would be sworn and subject to examination, as are other witnesses.

The crowd didn't quite fill the Garden's 18,500 capacity another three or four thousand could have got in but Eisenhower leaders were overjoyed at the turnout.

"I think it's the most spectacular thing in political history," enthused Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr., national chairman of the new Citizens for Eisenhower organization.

"A turnout of this proportion at this stage of the campaign is unheard of," the son of the late Republican senator from Michigan added.

"Without precedent," was the comment of Sen. Lodge (R-Mass.), manager of the Eisenhower campaign.

"Usually we have to work to fill the Garden at the end of a campaign. Now we're doing it with our man 3,000 miles away."

The midnight "Serenade to Eisenhower" was broadcast locally by radio, went as far as Chicago over television channels and was shortwave to France, where the general heads up the North Atlantic Treaty military forces.

Many stars of television and the movies were of the program.

Avalyn Jacqueline Cochran, co-moderator of the rally with Tex McCrary, is to fly to Paris later today with movies of the affair, the first of a series planned for different parts of the country.

The next will be in Ft. Worth, Texas.

Truman Not Very Fond of Spain

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—President Truman is not very fond of Franco Spain, he told his news conference yesterday.

The off-hand comment came in response to a question about his opinion of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's reported opposition to Spain entering the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

President Truman said he didn't know anything about General Eisenhower's statement because he hadn't seen it.

But, he added, he has never been very fond of Spain.

Later, this was qualified to mean that he referred to the Franco regime, not Spain itself.

Eisenhower's headquarters denied a labor leader's story Eisenhower had told a closed meeting of his headquarters that Spain would be kept out of NATO as long as he is supreme commander in West Europe.

SHAPE said Eisenhower believes any military deal with Spain at present should be on a bilateral basis between the United States and Madrid, and not through NATO.

It added the general had simply pointed out that only member governments can decide on the admission of Spain or any other new member, and that SHAPE has nothing to do with NATO membership.

One Hurt in Train Boiler Blast

El Dorado, Feb. 8 (AP)—Thirteen years ago a locomotive of the tiny El Dorado & Wesson Railroad exploded, killing the night hostler.

Yesterday, the boiler of the same locomotive exploded again, scattering smashed parts as far as 400 feet, shattering windowpanes in a house near the roundhouse, damaging a parked auto, and injuring hostler James H. Reynolds, 47.

Reynolds suffered burns and cuts, but his condition was not believed to be serious.

The El Dorado and Wesson is one of the nation's smallest railroads. It has only 14 miles of track and operates between El Dorado and Wesson, 12 miles southwest of here. Officials said they would continue operations with one locomotive.

Inside the church, a carpet had been laid to hush the shuffle of feet past the king's coffin. A strong warm sun sent shafts of multicolored lights through the stained glass windows. Four candles flickered at each corner of the bier. On the coffin was a silver plate engraved "Alber Frederick Arthur George Windsor, born 1895 died 1952."

Villagers in Last Homage to George VI

Sandringham, Eng. Feb. 8 (AP)—Mumblers villagers filed through their hushed country church today to pay last homage to the man they called a King George VI.

Farmers, carpenters, woodmen and servants sorrowfully stopped before the candle-lit bier to look for the last time on the coffin of their sovereign and friend.

Inside the big mansion nearby, where the king was born and where he died, Queen Elizabeth II proclaimed throughout the land yesterday as the new ruler of the British realm remained closed in deep mourning with her mother and sister and others of the royal family.

The new queen's flag flew high over Sandringham House. It was raised there yesterday when finally she reunited with her bereaved family after first performing the first heavy and solemn duties of her queenly station. Her father's standard which had flown over the mansion until his quiet death in sleep Wednesday, now covers his coffin.

The body of the fallen monarch lay in the nave of the little gray stone 16th century church of St. Mary Magdalene, 200 yards down a widening garden path over which it had been carried last night in the eerie moonlight from the big residence.

A village policeman stood guard at the wrought-iron gates near the chapel. Only the 300 odd villagers whom he could recognize as the King's own workers were admitted. During the morning, mainly the wives came.

The new queen had asked that work at Sandringham go on today just as any other day. The men stayed at their jobs tending the animals and gardens and other duties on the vast estate except for the king's game keepers who kept a silent watch over the coffin.

In their Robin Hood-like green buckskin jackets and dark knee breeches, the game keepers took two hourly watches, four at a time around the royal casket.

Some of the game keepers had stood the same grim watch over the body of the late king's father, George V, when he died here. And some had played with the late King when he romped over the estate as a boy.

DOROTHY DIX

Bury The Hatchet

Dear Miss Dix: My mother died when I was 15 months old; my father is a drunkard. Consequently I have lived from family to family on my father's side. Each relative made it a special point to tell me I was unwanted that they were being kind to me by allowing me to live with them. Yes, they were kind at times; all humans are. Being tossed from house to house has made me keenly aware of family peace and happiness.

I was living with my uncle and his family when, at 18, I met Roy. When we became engaged, my family objected strenuously that I moved to the Y. W. C. A. The thought Roy wasn't good enough for me, he wasn't making enough money etc. They told me never to come to them if I needed help, etc., etc. I slammed the door when I left—and never went back.

We have not been married over a year, have a darling son and are as happy as can be. We are building our own home, living in the basement until we finish the rest. Roy's working hard and making more money than when we were married.

My problem is my uncle's family. I do not harbor grudges and wonder if I should make an effort to call on them. When my son grows older, he'll wonder why his father's family gets together and mine stays away.

JEWEL

Answer: I thoroughly agree with you that one should not harbor grudges, but of course with some people it is impossible to keep on good terms. They'll find fault no matter how hard you try to please them. The best you can do is call on your uncle and his family, tell them you'd like to be friends, and if they rebuff your overtures, get along without them.

You Have Right Spirit

You and Roy have a fine spirit of co-operation and mutual consideration. With such a home atmosphere your son will have a goodly share of the family peace and happiness you missed. While it will be fine if the same spirit can be extended to include all the relatives on both sides of the family.

Answer: If you are convinced that your happiness, and the welfare of your child, depends upon your returning to your first wife, you could ask the second wife to be willing. You were in too much of a hurry to marry the second time, and should really have given the matter more reflection. Things do work out the way you want them, and you get back your first wife, don't you?

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman in my 60's living with three sons in their 30's. One son is single and unable to work. Another planning to marry and wants to live with him. I would rather not live with him and my daughter-in-law.

Answer: If you can possibly avoid it, I agree it is not wise to live with a newly married couple. Why not continue to maintain a home for your other two sons? You certainly need you, especially ailing one?

Police Dept. Cleanup Asked at Ft. Smith

Ft. Smith, Feb. 8 (AP)—A group of 50 citizens has adopted a resolution asking the City Commission to "clean up their police department and co-operate with the military."

A spokesman said the action involves police processing complaints about military personnel.

The Army operates a training base at nearby Camp Chaffee. The resolution has not formally been presented to the commission. The group is awaiting the recovery of Mayor Jack Pace. He recently underwent surgery.

Police Chief Pink Shaw said he was mystified by the action. He quoted the provost marshal at Camp Chaffee, Capt. Roscoe Noble, as saying he knew nothing about any complaints.

The commanding officer at the camp, Maj. Gen. David L. Ruffner, is away on leave.

Grover Jernigan served as chairman at the citizens meeting. He was authorized to name a committee of five to present the resolution. A second 5-man committee was authorized to make inquiries.

Jernigan said the investigation was designed to deal with reports of police handling of charges against military personnel. He did not go into detail except that an agreement reached last August between municipal and Army officials respecting law enforcement involving soldiers had not been fully kept.

State Backers of Stassen Organize

Little Rock, Feb. 8 (AP)—Supporters of Harold E. Stassen for the Republican presidential nomination have organized in Arkansas under the leadership of a close friend of GOP Mayor Pratt C. Remmel of Little Rock.

The Arkansas Stassen-For-President Club, headed by Phillips Boyer, was organized last night at a meeting here attended by one infant and 14 adults—including three newsmen.

Boyer was a leader in Mayor Remmel's successful campaign last fall to unseat Democratic incumbent Sam Wassell. He also served the new mayor temporarily as executive secretary.

Mayor Remmel has shied away from endorsing any specific candidate, but his brother, Roland Remmel, was present at last night's meeting. Boyer hastened to point out that Roland's presence did not necessarily mean he was supporting Stassen.

Mrs. A. C. Remmel, Arkansas GOP committeewoman and mother of Pratt and Roland, has said that she will support Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) for the nomination.

A life-long Democrat was named co-chairman of the Stassen Club. He is Leo J. Byrne, president of the Paragon Printing Co. Little Rock. Byrne explained that he knew Stassen "before he became governor of Minnesota," and that he felt Stassen was the best man for the nomination from other party.

Arcardo Holding a Pat Hand
 Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 9 (AP) — Jack Eddie Arcadio held a pat hand today as 40,000 fans headed to Santa Anita to take in a racing doubleheader.

Arcadio had the ride on the favorites in the co-features — Hill
 Prince in the 20,000 San Marcos Handicap at one mile, and Windy
 City II in the $25,000 San Felipe Handicap at a mile and one sixteenth.

There have been 18 stakes posted thus far in the Santa Anita meeting and Arcadio has captured seven of them, including last week's rich Maturity when he brought intent under the wire first.

Hill Prince, the pride of Virginia and his owner, Christopher T.
 Chenery, was set to make his first start of the year. Honored as an outstanding horse for the past three years, the 5-year old Hill Prince went into today's mile with 11 starts and $404,885 earnings in 27 starts behind him.

His opposition was strong, with such horses as Moonrush, winner of the 1951 Santa Anita Handicap, and Count Turf, Kentucky Derby champion last year, in the field of 11 slated to go postward.

Fights Last Night
 By The Associated Press
 New York — Chico Velazquez, 172, Stamford, Conn., stopped Johnny
 "Red" Defazio, 147 3-4, Bayonne, N. J. 9.

Hollywood, Calif. — Virgil Atkins,
 138, St. Louis, stopped Baby Leroy, 135, Oakland, Calif. 4.
 West Palm Beach, Fla. — Norm
 Thompson, 143, Paterson, N. J., stopped Billy Neri, 141, Bridgeport, Conn. 7.

ton he had a nice house for $125 a month, didn't have to care whether anyone else liked the way he lived or the hang of his curtains, and never bought more than five bottles of alcoholic beverages in a month. Five bottles was rather on the high side. Four or four and a fraction would be closer. But Mr.
 Wolfe was a serious man who never takes a bag on and positively never takes more than one drink in an evening. Now you can't fly on one wing but Mr. Wolfe doesn't drink to get off the ground. Just why he takes the one I didn't think to ask.
 And I am not trying to twist his arm and force fiery drafts down his gullet to steal away his character and numb his God-given faculties.

But over here! Why here he spends $300 a month, every month, for liquor even at the reduced prices in the army PX where the cursed stuff is free of tax. Scotch is only $3 a quart so one's check blank at the thought of the possible orgy in Mr. Wolfe's government quarters — three bedrooms, the Canadians, perhaps, or the British or French waste into his $300 a month worth of grog. I don't suppose a host would be likely to let his meditations dwell on the cost of a party when a foreign diplomat responded with a booming "yes" or "oui" to the polite inquiry "Will you have another drink?" But if a man should let his thoughts take this turn, his whole evening might be ruined. It seems that it ought to be possible to let these tankers bring their own as some of us did in prohibition days.

I have never heard any explanation of the rent allowance for the foreign service that satisfied my rather skeptical mind. These people are not underpaid and most of them aren't fit for anything but bureaucracy. They have hoked up a whole directory of categories, such as "adviser" and "senior consultant" and Washington is positively crawling with them. When a useless bureau gets discovered and is washed out, the parasites latch onto another one as they did recently when ECA was wound up and a new spending show was started.

During those years since the war while the people at home who pay the freight have been paying high and on their booze and cigarettes and on jewelry, thousands of carpozzers have been put to the temptations of the black market.
 An American bureaucrat in Germany gets seven pounds of coffee a month for each member of his family. Coffee is about $5 a pound in the German stores and Germa-nian pays 90 cents a pound.

This is a campaign year and the heat is on. About 100 employees were let out of HICOG, the commission for the government of Germany, in January. The force will be cut from 1,538 to 900 in July.
 Shepard Stone, of the Sunday section of the New York Times, is chief of the public affairs department which has a mission — to spread American culture to the Europeans. He is the cultural artist of this program, and his staff of 447 is a little more than a fourth of the whole show. He will cut to 300 by July 1st but propo-rately this cultural exploit of the Truman bureaucracy will increase from one-fourth now to more than one-third. The Europeans will get a dose of culture and they will like it.

Two Platoons Used by AIC's Hindsman
 Russellville, Feb. 9 (AP) — Basketball championships and Sam Hindsman, a young coach who has no set system except for the use of two platoons, seem to go hand-in-hand.

Hindsman is well on his way to his fifth Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference title in his seventh year of coaching in the league. His record as a college coach mentor, two years at Arkansas State Teachers and the last four plus at Arkansas Tech here, is 11 victories and 9 defeats. His conference mark is 99 and 20.

So, 33-year-old Sam must have something to be recruiting success, coaching ability or a combination of both. It couldn't be just luck.

When his Tech Wonder Boys were monopolizing the AIC crown the past three years, there were those who said any coach could win with players like Deward Dopson, the high scoring center, and other stars on the team.

But Dopson and the other veteran Wonder Boys who had been riding so high graduated after the 1951 season. That left Hindsman with the job of starting all over again.

"The result is the same. Sam has molded a bunch of freshmen into a classy team that has won 13 AIC titles without a loss and appears to be a shoo-in for the championship.

How does he do it?
 Says he:
 "I organize my pattern to fit my players instead of making the players fit the patterns. I never know from one year to the next what type of offense or defense that I will use. I wait until I see what I have and then work from there.

"Most of the time I use a ball control, pattern system, but when we meet a team where a fast break or some other style would be advantageous, we use that."
 "In other words, I stress variety."
 "I also believe that it pays by keeping fresh men in the game." After tinkering around with the two platoon system I reached this conclusion. In 1949 I didn't use the platoon system and my team averaged 63.4 points per game and allowed the opposition 55.7. The next year I started using two platoons and the same team averaged 74.2 points per game and allowed the opposition 51.

"If a boy knows that he will only play 10 minutes at a time, he will put everything he has into it."

Hindsman's success makes it easier for him to get the better basketball players as they come out of high school.

"I had offers from three AIC schools," one of his current freshmen said. "But I had been told that Coach Hindsman was the best in the state and I came here because of that."

Another Wonder Boy, who has played under Sam longer, commented:
 "Words can't express how I feel about Hindsman as a coach and man. He can drive us while being nice about it and he's like a father to us in our daily lives. You feel as if you have to win to justify his faith in you."

Hinds
